

NDHIN PROVIDES ACCESS TO MAYO CLINIC RECORDS THROUGH THE EHEALTH EXCHANGE

NDHIN has been connected to the eHealth Exchange for several years now. The eHealth Exchange is a continually growing health information exchange (HIE) network for securely sharing clinical information nationwide and is the largest HIE infrastructure in the United States. Recently, NDHIN finished testing with the Mayo Clinic through the eHealth Exchange hub. This means that Mayo Clinic records are queryable through the NDHIN's external records search option. This has been a long sought-after capability by NDHIN participants, and we are proud to announce that functionality.

What does this mean for NDHIN? Health care providers participating with the NDHIN will be able to securely access a patient's medical history from Mayo Clinic facilities through the eHealth Exchange by using the external records search option from the NDHIN clinical portal. For detailed instructions on how to access external records from NDHIN, click here.

ARE YOU TRANSITIONING TO A NEW/DIFFERENT EHR?

We know that this can be a very busy time and NDHIN wants to assist in making this transition as smooth as possible.

- Please reach out to NDHIN as soon as plans begin on your migration to inform us of the transition
- Discussions between your facility, your existing EHR vendor, your new EHR vendor and NDHIN may be needed to ensure all established NDHIN data feeds are identified to be transitioned appropriately
- If you have single sign on (SSO) functionality currently and wish to establish this in the new EHR we can work with the EHR vendor to get this set up
- We are here to help answer any questions you may have related to your NDHIN access and connectivity as you journey through your EHR transition!
